

April 5, 2006

I, and many of my fellow Americans, express grave concern over the proposal from WalMart to have its own bank. WalMart controls enough of this worlds and of course our own countrys' economy that this should immedialtely put up a red flag. The sheer domination of one corporation is frightening. Not to mention the fact that (just like with local businesses) WalMart will of course be threatening local and community banks and credit unions. This gives WalMart too much control over money and business, allowing to be selective when doling out money, and perhaps somewhat preferential in dealing with its own finances.

Please attend all hearings, listen to all reports, and think of what your decision could mean to our country!!

Thank you very much for your time,
Jesse McAvoy
Portland, Maine